St Hilliers

2003
Sydney, NSW, Australia

The winner of the 2003 Institute of Architects Wilkinson Award, Mondrian is located on the Chubb site in Green Square, Waterloo, between Powell and Short Streets on a 6605m² site in South Sydney, this project consists of 124 apartments in four separate buildings arranged east/west around a series of common courtyards. The design philosophy encompassed creation of a contemporary urban residential landscape and public domain responding to the Green Square masterplan objectives for a sustainable environment. Components of the design included a public park with integrated storm water system where roof and pavement water surcharges to the lawn in peak events from a detention tank for onsite infiltration. The water will produce an ephemeral quality reflecting the environmental processes of the site. Adjacent to the water feature is a proposed cafe housed in a renovated 1920's electrical sub station.
