

Urban Design Leader | Senior Level Position

McGregor Coxall are seeking the services of a committed, senior level urban designer with a minimum of five years experience to lead our urban design activities in the Sydney studio.

Through the joy of design we secure a restorative fit between cities and their supporting ecosystems

McGregor Coxall were established in 1998 with a defined mission statement and the specific aim of pursuing design innovation founded on sustainable environmental, social and economic principles. The firm has been awarded prizes in a number of international design competitions and received numerous design awards. A diverse range of Australian and international projects have been undertaken in the realms of landscape architecture and urban design. Our studio is a challenging workplace focused on design excellence and environmental innovation.

Candidates should have design aptitude, leadership ability, client marketing skills and the capability to work both independently and collaboratively. They will have successfully managed urban design projects and teams. An established client network and knowledge of Australian planning law would be an advantage.

The successful applicant will need to be an ambitious team player, well organised and experienced in using a range of 2D and 3D software applications. Knowledge of Vectorworks, 3D rendering software and Adobe Suite would be advantageous. The applicant will need to demonstrate a high level of proficiency in written English and report writing skills.

The minimum education requirements are a degree in architecture with a masters degree in urban design. Salary is negotiable dependent on education and experience and the position is full time.

Please email your design/graphic portfolio in PDF format together with a curriculum vitae outlining your experience to careers@mcgregorcoxall.com
