

Located in Power Avenue South Sydney, opposite Alexandria Park, and 600m from the new Green Square Railway Station, Atlas Apartments signify the combined talents and visions of an innovative developer and design focused consultant team. Atlas has 136 apartments in four low-rise buildings located around a central courtyard and a park-side retail space designed for a street cafe. The landscape plan incorporates the principles of urban ecology, a discipline that encompasses use of permaculture and biodiversity to heal city environments. Roof water is recycled for use in the gardens and ponds, and the water features provide natural evaporative cooling to the central courtyard. The garden patterns rise out of the structural skeleton from the car park. Custom seats and water features were designed for the project.
